Fill in the blanks with an appropriate verb form. Choose your answers from the given options. In the simple present tense, we make negatives by putting do not or does not before the infinitive. We use does not when the subject is a singular noun or pronoun. The past participle 'returned' clearly indicates that we need have, not do, here. We use does not here because Michael is a singular noun. After do and does we use the infinitive (first form of the verb). Did + send -> sent Either could be used here The present perfect tense cannot be used with past time expressions. We use does with singular nouns and pronouns. Also, we use the simple present to talk about habits. The auxiliaries do and have are used in the present tenses. In questions, only the first of the two auxiliaries goes before the subject. In the present perfect continuous tense, we use has/have + been + ing form of the verb. Answers1. She does not want to be disturbed while she is working.2. You have not returned the camera you borrowed from me.3. Michael does not speak French.4. Did you send the parcel last week?5. They did not attend the meeting yesterday.6.
