Okay, let's see. The user wants me to paraphrase the given article text using one of the three methods: spelling errors, non-native English speaker style, or increased burstiness. First, I need to determine which method to use based on the specified probabilities. Since the user mentioned 40% for SE, 30% for NNES, and 30% for IB, I'll randomly select one. Let me check the example they provided. The example used SE, so maybe I should go with that. Wait, no, the user wants me to randomly choose each time. Let me flip a coin in my mind. Let's say I pick the increased burstiness method this time. Now, I need to rewrite the text with varying sentence lengths and structures. The original text has a lot of quiz questions and answers, along with some unrelated content about home-based work. I should make sure to maintain the structure but change the phrasing. For example, instead of "New to Reddit? Create your account..." maybe rephrase it to "Just starting out on Reddit? Set up your account to join vibrant communities." Also, the part about sabun packing needs to be adjusted. Let me check the original again. The user included some Hindi text, so I need to keep that but maybe restructure the sentences. Wait, the user might want the entire text paraphrased, including the Hindi parts. Let me ensure that I don't miss any sections. The main content is the quiz questions and answers, followed by some promotional text. I'll need to rephrase each question and answer, maybe combine some sentences, and vary the structure. For instance, "What was the primary purpose of the Great Wall?" could become "What was the main reason for building the Great Wall?" Also, the answer options should remain the same but presented differently. I should also check for any typos or inconsistencies in the original text. For example, the URL in the first question has " which might be a typo, but I'll keep the URLs as they are. The user might not want any changes to the URLs. Another thing to note is the mix of English and Hindi in the promotional part. I need to keep the Hindi text intact but perhaps rephrase the surrounding sentences. For example, " 2 15,000!" could be rephrased as "Work just 2 hours a day from home and earn 15,000 every month!" but I need to ensure the Hindi part is kept as is. I should also check the flow of the text. The original has multiple questions and answers, so I'll need to maintain that structure but vary the sentence lengths. For example, using shorter sentences for the questions and longer ones for the answers. Finally, I'll review the entire paraphrased text to ensure it's coherent, maintains the original information, and follows the selected method. Let me make sure there are no markdown formats and that the text is properly formatted as per the user's request.**Microsoft Rewards Bing News Quiz Answers (April 19, 2024)** 1.
